THE MUSICAL PROFESSIONAL SOCIETY OF BOSTON,

Respectfully recommend this work to the Public.

EXCEPTING Old Hundred and four other Tunes, all the Music herein contained is originally composed by Ch: Zeuner, President of the said Society, now Organist to the Park Street Church, and to the Handel and Haydn Society. Mr. Zeuner having submitted this Work for the examination of the undersigned Trustees of the Musical Professional Society, we have found it possessing great beauty and correctness; and it gives us both pleasnre and satisfaction to express our entire approbation of its contents, as being perfectly appropriate for its purpose, combining a sublime and sacred character with ease and simplicity. It is suitable for the different capacities of different Choirs, whether in the city or in the country; and being a Work of great and indefatigable study and laborious exertion, it is but just that Mr. Zeuner should meet with thankful and encouraging acknowledgments from us, as well as all others who feel interested for the promotion and improvement of Sacred Music. To select Music for sacred purposes from common Songs, from Operas, Marches or Glees, and to introduce such into the Churches, we condemn as highly improper and absurd. This book is, perhaps, the first ever published in this country by the Profession itself; and as almost every work passes through the hands of the Profession, more or less, before published, and their names are frequently attached as a recommendation, even contrary to their wishes and better conviction,—we cannot doubt gaining public confidence and patronage for a book, the merits of which are exclusively supported upon our own professional recommendation and responsibility. The method of instruction attached, is upon Pestalozzi's principles, as generally used, with great effect on the Continent of Europe, affording methodical facility to both teachers and pupils; and it surpasses any other method for instructing and forming Choirs. This book, if sufficiently sought for, is intended, in future Editions, to reach four hundred pages, but nothing will be altered. The Small Notes between the Treble and Bass, are either for the Organ or Piano, and will enable such as do not understand Thorough Bass to accompany the voices properly, although the accompaniment may be omitted without detriment to the voice parts, which are perfect in themselves. All the Hymns and Poetry are taken, with permission, from "Church Psalmody, a Collection, &c. &c. adapted to Public Worship, by L. Mason, and David Greeu, of Boston, and published by Perkins and Marvin," which collection having been selected and revised with peculiar care, judgment and ability, is a chaste specimen of Sacred Poetry. The Hymn tunes in Chant style will be found of great utility: being frequently difficult to find an appropriate Hymn to many Stanzas, they are intended to obviate many rhythmical imperfections.

To such as might desire some further information in Singing, as well as a collection of Chants, Anthems, &c. we recommend Mr. Zeuner's new and original Church Music, consisting of Anthems, Motetts and Chants, to be had of Hilliard, Gray, & Co.

Having our profession at heart, we trust Mr. Zeuner's work will have an extensive circulation, convinced that it will give satisfaction not only to the Profession itself, but also to the liberal Amateur, and to any congregation where Music forms a part of worship.

EXPLANATION OF THE USUAL TERMS IN SACRED MUSIC.

Accelerando, constantly accelerating in speed.
Adagio, slow.——(ma, but; non, not; troppo, too much; Molto, much or very.
A Due, Ductto, is a composition in two parts, or for two voices.
A Tre, Terzetto or Trio, in three parts.
A Quartre or Quartetto, in four parts.
Ad Lib. Ad Libitum, without strict observation of time, or at pleasure.
Affettuoso, affectionately.——Con Affetto, with affection, or tender expression.
Alla breve, or Alla Capella, or a C with a line drawn through, signifies two beats in a bar, and to be performed quick.
Allegrezza, lively.
Allegro, (or Allo,) brisk, quick.——Allegro assai, di molto, agitato, vivace, an increased quickness of Allegro.
Allegretto, a little brisk.
Allegrissimo, as quick as possible.
Alto, in German, Italian, and French compositions, means always the second Treble, to be sung by a female or child's voice; but in English compositions, it signifies a high Tenor voice.
Andante, a little slow.
Andantino, a little faster than Andante.
Amen, yes it will certainly be done, or be it so, or may it be so.
Amabile, amiable.
Amoroso, tenderly.
Animoso, animate.
Anthem, in former times meant a portion of the Scriptures, set to Music: at present, however, it means not only that, but also sacred words put to Music, for 1, 2, 3 or 4 voices or parts.
A tempo, in time: used where the singer is at liberty to retard, or quicken the time; and means that strict time must again be resumed.
Aria, an air—song.—Arietta, a small air—song.
Arioso or Cantabile, a melodious air.
Bass, the Bass part, and the lowest part in harmony.
Bis, twice, or repeat.
Brio, Brioso, Con Brio, fiery, or with great animation.
Brilliante, a brilliant style or manner of execution.
Cadenza, a close; or a preparation to close, whole or half.
Canon, a scientific composition. Explanation would be entirely useless without knowing contra-point and fugue. (There are a great many kinds of canons: pr. Ex. canon simplex, canon duplex, canon triplex, canon apertus, canon clausus, canon enigmaticus, canon cirularis, canon infinitus, canon perpetuus. Some canons receive their names from certain kinds of imitations, like canon in Hypoditono, in Epidiatessaron, in Epidiapente, in Hypodiapente, in Epidiapason, in Hypodiapason, there are, perhaps, more than fifty kinds of canons.) All such names and expressions, on the top of a canon, have no meaning for performers, except in the canons cirularis, and infinitus, where only one part begins.
Cantabile, singing in a pleasing style.
Calando, (or Calo,) a diminution of time and sound, in general.
Canto, Cantus, the Air, the voice part or the melody.
Concertante, is added to a piece where the parts have the melody alternately.
Chorus, a composition for not less than 4 parts, often to 5, 6, 7, or 8 parts, sometimes signifies Chorus; Tutti; for all the voices.
Coda, the close of a composition, or an additional close.
Con fuoco, wild, with fire.
Con, with.
Con anima, with soul—expression.
Comodo, like Allegretto, commodious.
Con moto, fast.
Crescendo, or Cresc., to swell the sound—Decrescendo, or Decresc., to diminish the sound.
Da Capo, (D. C., or D. Cp. to repeat certain strains, or from the beginning, unto the Fine, (End.)
Dal segno, (D. Sg.) from the sign.
Diminuendo, (Dim.,) gradually slower, diminishing.
Dicoto, solemn or devout.
Dolce, sweetly or soft.
Doloroso, con dolce, melancholy or dolorous.
Duo, Duetto, for two parts, with or without accompaniments of an orchestra.
Duolo, con duolo, with pain, sorrow.
E, and, as moderato e flebile, moderate and complaining.
Expressico, expressive.
Fagotto, Bassoon—also a stop on the Organ.
Falsetto, or voce di testa, Head voice produces the higher tones; is of a more delicate and soft sound, artificial, and seems to originate from the throat.
Fastoso, sublime.
Finale, the last part.
Fine, the end.
Forte or F, loud.
Fortissimo or FF, very loud.
Sforzando, or Fz., $>$ $<$ with force, emphasis.
Fuga or Fugue, a scientific composition where the parts constantly imitate and according to certain Rules—there are many kinds of Fugues.
(Fuga ricertata, fuga libera, fuga saluta, fuga sciolta, fuga recta, fuga retrograda, fuga per augmentationem, fg. p. diminutionem, fuga per arsin et thesin, in relation to the Theme: fuga composita, fuga incomposita, fuga authentica, fuga plagalis.) All such names and expressions are immaterial to the performers, and no anxiety need therefore to be felt concerning their meaning, nor that of the different canons.
Grave, very slow and serious.
Gustaso, or con gusto, with taste.
Hallelujah, Hebr. lang. signifies praise the Lord.
Innocentamente, innocent.
Interval, the distance between any two tones.
Largo, slow—slower than Adagio.
Larghetto, pretty slow.
Lagrimoso, Lamentabile, Lamentoso, lamenting.
Legato, slurring the notes together.
Lento, slow like Adagio.
Lentando, rallentando, ritardando, gradually retarding;
Listeso tempo, in the same time.
Ma, but
Major, the correspondent major key, or major in general.
Marato, diminishing.

EXPLANATION OF THE USUAL TERMS IN SACRED MUSIC.

INTRODUCTION TO THE ART OF SINGING.

OF MUSIC.

Music consists of Melody and Harmony.

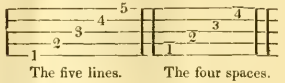

Melody, is the air or tune of a composition, or the most conspicuous and flowing, and generally the highest part.

Harmony, is the combination of several sounds at once, by which an agreeable effect is produced on the ear, and the connexion existing between different Chords, (whether Conchords or Discords,) in a whole composition.

Notes, signify all signs by which the different sounds are expressed, recognized or represented; also the Cliffs, Rests, Dots, and all other necessary characters. The notes are placed higher or lower on the lines or spaces, according to the height or depth of the sounds which they indicate.

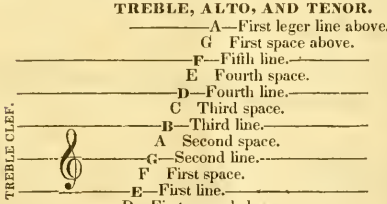

ON THE STAVE AND CLEFS.

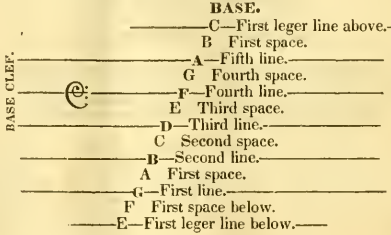

The system of lines on which musical sounds are represented by signs called notes, is termed the stave; its five lines and four included spaces, are counted upwards, as.

As it is of great importance that the situation of the letters upon the Staff should be perfectly known, the student is advised to commit to memory the following Scale, or

GAMUT.

(Both very little used.)

Chromatical Scale. Consists only of half Tones.

Ascending. Descending.

Enharmonical Scale. Shows how one Tone is sharpened, and another Tone flattened: meet and become the same.

BASE NOTES. TREBLE NOTES.

By the word scale, is to be understood the regular succession of whole tones and semitones, ascending or descending by degrees. Semitones, are of two sorts, major and minor.

1. The minor, or, as it is also termed, the chromatic semitone, is formed by a ♯, ♭, or ♮, and stands always on the same degree of the stave as the preceding note, as: ☞

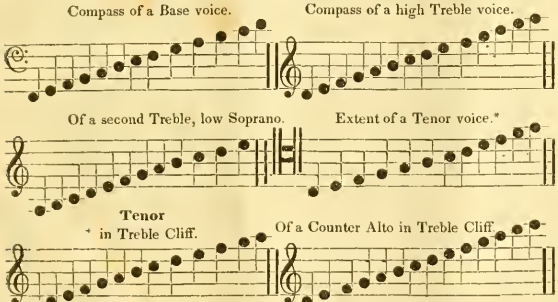

2. The major or diatonic semitone, on the contrary, stands always on the next degree, above or below; as:

It follows therefore that a whole tone, always comprises one major, and one minor semitone; and, that between the two tones which form the whole tone, there is always a half tone in the middle.

COMPASS OF THE VOICES.

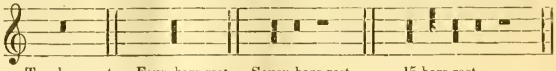

DOTTED NOTES AND RESTS.

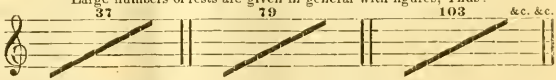

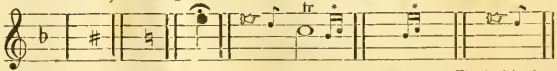

From the above Example, it will appear that a dotted Semibreve is as long as a Semibreve and a Minim, or three Minims.—A dotted Minim as long as a Minim and a Crotchet, or three Crotchets. &c. &c.

Large numbers of rests are given in general with figures, Thus:

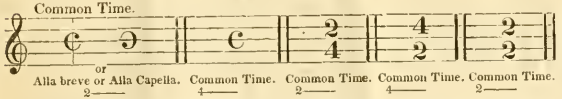

Of Flats, Sharps, and other musical characters.

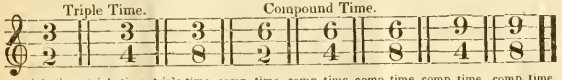

OF TIME.

SOME EXPLANATIONS.

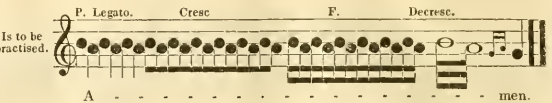

A Flat, directs that the note before which it is placed, be sung half a note lower than its natural tone.

A Sharp, directs that the note before which it is placed be sung half a note higher than its natural tone.

A Natural, directs that the note before which it is placed, be sung neither higher or lower than its natural tone: and it is used to contradict the flats or sharps placed at the beginning, &c. Remark. Flats, or sharps, placed at the beginning of a Tune, affect every note upon that line or space, throughout the whole, but when placed before any note within a Tune, they affect only such notes as fall upon the line or space on which they are marked, for one bar, though to prevent mistakes, they are usually contradicted by a natural.

A Pause, or stop, 𝄐 &c., should be increased and diminished thus,  after which a profound silence for a few moments, gives it a wonderful effect. In crescendo, we must open the mouth a little at first, and by degrees more; in decrescendo, just the reverse, both have a fine effect.

Shakes are in music important graces. A turned shake is marked thus.  is to be sung

Shake of a half tone.  (semitone.) No. 2.

APPOGIATURAS AND GRACES.

Key. Signifies the Diatonic major or minor Scale, as formed from any tone, in which a composition is written, and from which tone it obtains its name. The Diatonic Scales, consisting of whole and half tones, we are compelled to use more or less Flats or Sharps, in order to regulate or keep the tones at a proper distance, hence we have as many keys as half tones within an Octave, and hence the meaning of placing Sharps or Flats, before a Piece of Music.
